In his first address to Congress President Obama promised that the federal government would “rid the Medicare program of fraud and abuse.” There is a lot happening with new laws and regulations that impact the ambulance industry. Massive new changes under the Economic Recovery Program that impact HIPAA, the new “red flag rules” to prevent identity theft and new government initiatives to more closely scrutinize health care providers will affect the way you do business. There are also significant new changes and more changes on the horizon in the workplace law arena that you need to prepare for now to ensure that the “people side” of your ambulance operation functions effectively.

..... —Steve Wirth, Esq.

Ever feel like the “new generation” of EMS provider just doesn’t seem to have the same “work ethic” that you have? We are in a recruitment and retention crisis in the ambulance industry! This session boils much of today’s critical EMS “staffing stagnation” down to the importance of “knowing where they are coming from” and communicating and meeting simple expectations of both today’s new workforce and the public. In this dynamic and unique presentation, we’ll cover key concepts on generational differences and how understanding “where your people are coming from” — especially the “Millennials” born between 1980 and 2000 — can lead to better recruitment and retention of high quality staff.
